You are such a lifesaver! It makes me so thankful to have you and it automatically makes me start thinking about how I can repay you by taking Ty in the future! Henry said he would love to go to the travel LAX game in Rye...I think I would be getting home probably about the time you guys will be coming home from that. As for Sunday...maybe what I will do is drop him to you about 9:45am on my way to yoga...I know they don't have their practice until 11:30 but hope that is ok. Then he could stay with you guys until birthday party over. After the bday party maybe I will plan to have neighbor girl be at our house and then if you could just drop him home after bday party that would be good...it still has you doing a lot of "helping me out" but seems to be somewhat broken up between practices and bday party so doesn't seem quite so bad (ie. I will still feel guilty but not quite as bad as I would if he was at your house the entire day!)...that way Sunday after the party you guys will have some chill time before his 5:30 game. I think a sitter at that time on Sunday should be easy to get! Thank you again!! As for Friday...our talent show was 1 hour...it was nice as they were good about keeping it to an hour but who knows how long yours will go...we wouldn't even be able to get there until 7:45 anyway since he has baseball until 7:30. Now, if it seems too late...we could just opt out of Friday night and we could see you for dinner on Saturday night; however, that may not be what you guys want to do because you very well may have a sitter scheduled for a night out with each other! No worries either way!

I also wanted to sadly report that we can't go to the Cinco De Mayo party at Wendy's house. I will be flying back to South Dakota that weekend for my grandmother's funeral and Pat will be in Providence for a basketball tourney...Henry is staying here and Gloryana has agreed to stay with him that weekend as long as you are ok with that...of course, she will always make sure that you guys are covered and ok with it before it's a for sure! Oh wait, G has something that Saturday night so I need to find coverage just for that evening! Let's discuss that evening, too, because I have a good idea that would maybe help both of us out!! > Hiiii! The simple answer is yes to everything! Ty lives having Henry around and was begging for a play date yesterday! We went to my sisters after we landed or I probably would have asked if he was available! This Friday is the variety show! Woohoo! But after that would be fun to meet at CS? You may not want to wait for us though- show starts at 6:30. When will it be over? May have a better idea after the thurs dress rehearsal. Sat Ty has a travel LAX game at 3:30 in Rye. Would Henry mind coming? I could bring snacks and there will probably be other brothers/ sisters in stands? They have lax practive 10:30 right? On Sunday Dominic's party is 1:30-3:30 and we can take him to that. Ty has travel lax game at 5:30 at Saxe (Henry can come or if he's had enough game watching I can drop him to your neighborhood girl if she is available). The boys have lax practice in the morning together on Sunday also and we can take them to practice together! Let me k ow what you think of all this! Very very happy to have him while you are at yoga! And wow on pat and coaching in Pittsburgh!! You must be thrilled! Xo les

I am sure we have much to discuss...from your trip details, to your house details, to our sports schedules to our happiness about it getting nicer!! I do have some housekeeping questions, though, to get out of the way with you...I really should say...some favors to ask of you!! First, this coming weekend I have yoga Saturday and Sunday from 9:45-6:30 and my husband is going to be away coaching AAU basketball in Pittsburgh!! Ugh!! Gloryana is going to be able to take care of him on Saturday until about 2PM but then is leaving for a wedding in Jersey. Would you be able to take him from 2-6:30? On Sunday, I am planning to find a sitter (maybe the neighbor girl) to watch him because Gloryana will still be in Jersey. For Sunday, if I could drop him maybe to you guys on my way to yoga...about 9:45am and take him to LAX then I could have a sitter here at the house waiting for him at 1:00 until I am home at 6:30. Please feel completely free to say no to any and all of these options. I just was trying to figure out the best plan given that he has LAX, baseball, etc. I don't really have a sitter that drives right now except for G. When Tom C gets finished with college on about May 10th I can have him help me but until then my sitters are all high school aged!!

>> I also wanted to throw out that Henry and I will be around Friday evening if you guys want to grab dinner at CS...it may not work, though, because Henry has baseball practice until 7:30 at Country Day school...so much more to discuss!!! Love you.
