This is just bananas. I did everything that was asked of me and somehow I'm in trouble for it...

I was told to be at the house... and i was
I was told not to bother JE... so i didn't

I can't keep getting chewed out for nothing it just makes no sense. Was i supposed to go walking through the house and find him and say "hi I'm here"? After being told to be there in the first place?

[REDACTED] just to fill you in I only got back to the house at about 5 ish after I did something stupid with my bag at the airport.

Francis regarding below... I wonder if you should tell him , I feel like you possibly should but am always wary to give advice in case he gets upset. But I feel like maybe he needs to know...

I dont know what to say...

I've been there for 3 days preparing for JEs arrival and now im in the dog house because he didnt know I was there. I have snacks made in the fridge and all kinds of food ready to cook for him upon his return... Steak, beef stew, chicken soup, chocolate cream pie....

Everyone except JE knew i was in the house and some how nobody thought to tell him. I even offered to help prepare the burgers and was told NO. Then I asked if that was what he wanted for dinner, which was odd to me, and no one had an answer for me except "He doesnt want to be bothered".

I even mentioned to Karyna via email that I was there and prepared to cook dinner tonight and that was before JE even returned home.

I dont know where I went wrong on this one.

He asked if I let Francis know that we were coming and I said yes. I suppose I should not have taken for granted that he would understand that this would obviously mean that you were at the house Francis. I don't know why Jojo didn't mention anything before getting the burger. I suppose he just followed Je instruction. Anyway, moving forward, on days he returns when francis has not been traveling with him, I suppose we should let him know that you are going to be at the house and ask him what he would like prepared for when he arrives beside jerky ginger and muffins? Would this work?
