Maybe I should go to Joe's Barber Chair? Better still, when I am next in San Diego, and you are at work, maybe I can apply for a job and take out all my cutting ,snipping,clipping, issues out on complete strangers? Sounds like the old man may need some help? So do you look more handsome than ever?

<blockquote type=cite class=cite cite>So this friend opens a shop and wants me to check it out, and says it's right next door to Joe's barber shop.&nbsp; So, I&nbsp; drive by and see the old fashioned Barber shop, twirly pole and all, with a tattered sign that reads Joe's Barber Chair.&nbsp; Not a shop, just a chair.&nbsp; One guy one chair.&nbsp; I'm thinking, hey I need a haircut, how bad can he screw it up.&nbsp;&nbsp; I walk in, and blast back in time to the 1960's, authentic chair, fake wood panelling, old fashioned radio with the big nob, ancient magazines, bowling trophies, etc.&nbsp; The whole 9 yards.&nbsp;&nbsp; The guy is probably at least 70 and maybe 80 and he says you wanna buzz .&nbsp; I say sure pal .&nbsp; He says how 'bout a 3.and a half .&nbsp; I say 3 1/2 sounds great .&nbsp;&nbsp;&nbsp; He wraps the tissue around my neck and fires up the razor.

Well 12 bucks and 2 minutes later my hair is a short and as soft as a freshly J sistered Zuzu.&nbsp;&nbsp;&nbsp; Had a momentary flashback to being 5 years old and getting a butch in a place identical to it called John's barber shop.

Probably the best haircut I've had, and it's seriously short.&nbsp;&nbsp; I learned a few things.

1.&nbsp;&nbsp; Next time, probably just a 3.

2..I like being able to order my haircut by the number.&nbsp;

3.&nbsp; I don't have to spend 100 bucks for a haircut anymore.&nbsp;

4.&nbsp;&nbsp;&nbsp; Joe's been cutting hair since the 40's.&nbsp;&nbsp;&nbsp; In that location for 10 years, the guy before him was there 39 years.&nbsp;

Funny shit, but I'll be back.&nbsp;&nbsp; Maybe I'll do the shave for 15 bucks next time I'm going to see you.
