Incandescent, scintillating Brahms New in the archive: Herbert Blomstedt and András Schiff

The Swedish-American conductor Herbert Blomstedt has been making music with the Berliner Philharmoniker for over 40 years, and today, his appearances with the orchestra are among the highlights of the concert calendar. Last weekend, Blomstedt's performance demonstrated that even at 89 years of age he still has his accustomed alertness and maintains a masterly overview. Sir András Schiff has also had a long association with the Philharmoniker, including as their Pianist in Residence in the 2007/2008 season. The programme took us from one of Béla Bartók's last works, his intimate and nostalgic Third Piano Concerto, to Johannes Brahms's First Symphony. The intensity of expression and relaxed manner of their music making led to one of their finest hours: "It is rare to hear such an incandescent, scintillating Brahms. [...] Nothing sounds superficial, everything is significant" (Der Tagesspiegel).
