Over 130,000 people have launched projects on Kickstarter. From t-shirts, to films, to murals, people from all over the world have created incredible things. When are you going to start your project?

My Wooden Horse

My Wooden Horse

By Shalgi Design Studio

A pair of brothers, both industrial designers, wanted to make a classic toy that was durable, simple, and wouldn't end up in a garage sale. They came up with My Wooden Horse, a gorgeous toy that's much cleaner and prettier than a pony, if we do say so ourselves.

Wes ANDERZINE

Wes ANDERZINE

By owen clements

Wes Anderzine is a zine of writing and art dedicated to Royal Tennenbaums director Wes Anderson. It's a small project by a man determined to create, assemble and ship the booklet to backers with the power of his bare hands.

The Roller Coaster Project

The Roller Coaster Project

By David Moghaddam

Fascinated by roller coasters since the age of 8, last year Dave started building his own — a fully fabricated wooden roller coaster, except it's 20 times smaller than the Cyclone. He's documenting the whole thing on his blog, where you can check out the 3D-printed mini car he uses for friction tests, and other adventures in engineering.

Make a piano album.
Or a piano made of bananas.
