Hi [REDACTED],

So great to hear from you too! Apologies for my super delayed response! Thanks for the recommendation! I'm not sure if she emailed in the end, but thanks either way!

To answer your question, I am still working towards my PhD in Clinical Psychology. It will be six years in total. It's great, but I would love to have more of a social life, as it's pretty non-existent at the moment! I'm in DC, so if you ever visit, I would love to see you!

How fun that Ike is coaching Ty's team! I'm sure they're in heaven together. Hope he's enjoying school and friends too!

Warmly,

Wendy

Hi Wendy!! So nice to hear from you...Wow! More school for you...incredible...where are you these days and what are you studying? Would be VERY happy to give you a super recommendation...have the mom email me...

[REDACTED] will be 9 on Dec. 16! Can't even believe it...time goes too fast. He is in 3rd grade and playing tackle football! Ike is one of the coaches...they are both loving it. :)

Great to hear from you! [REDACTED]

Hi [REDACTED]

How are you? It's been so long! I'm so eager to know how Ty is doing. What is he know, 9 or something crazy like that??

School on my end is going well. I'm now in my fourth year. Including this year, I have three left. Feels like an eternity. Nonetheless, I am loving it. I work with kids a ton, which I'm sure you can imagine makes me very happy! I'm actually interning at an elementary school where I do individual and family therapy with kids Ty's age.

I'm writing because someone that I would like to babysit for would like to speak with you about your experience with me as a sitter. I told her I haven't sat with you guys in a very long time since I moved away, but that I'd contact you to see if you would be willing to talk to her. Please let me know if I can give her your name (and email) as a reference. Thanks so much!

I would LOVE to hear about how everything is going. Give [REDACTED] a hug for me and say hi to Ike too!

Wendy
