

To: Lesley Groff [REDACTED]
From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Thur 6/27/2013 10:10:43 PM
Subject: Re: Bus/Train to Rhode Island

Hi!

I just did some research. The best mode of transport is in fact the bus, not the train. And I think all buses leave from South Station in Boston. The bus I'd take would leave at either 6.30 or 7.30, depending on how our day goes and at what point we leave Cambridge... So no I don't think it'll be much of a problem.

Thanks Lesley,

JJ

On Jun 27, 2013, at 3:49 PM, Lesley Groff wrote:

Hi [REDACTED]...I'm looking on line and it seems Greyhound from Boston goes to Providence and Newport, RI for around $29 one way (example: from Boston to Newport at 6:30pm arrive 8:10pm or 9:00pm arrive 10:35pm)...I see an Amtrak train from Boston which goes to Providence at 6:51pm arrives 7:25pm...also 9:36pm arrives Providence at 10:22pm for $15.00...just not sure where you are going (but it appears you shouldn't have a problem...)

...below are the links to amtrak and greyhound...

<http://tickets.amtrak.com/itd/amtrak>

<https://www.greyhound.com/en/ticketsandtravel/default.aspx>

Taxi companies:

<http://greenandyellowcab.com> 617 625 5000

Cambridge Union Taxi: 617 661 2500

Cambridge Taxi Cab: 617 649 7000