> Hi [REDACTED]! That flight sounds scary!! Don't worry about the phones. Honestly, It has wrung 5 times today and that is it. And 3 of them were for other people. It is forwarded to my cell now and will remain so until I really get on the plane. My husband is sick (and he is never sick) he wants to take this trip because he is to see clients , has appointments and we have the event tomorrow nite. However, we would need to be back by 9am on thurs to take care of more trades...he is telling me now it is 70percent chance we don't go. In other words, I would handle the phones!! Welcome back and don't swaet this!! Go do yoga and sweat! :) les

To be honest I probably would prefer a day not to worry about it, but it also wouldn't be the end of the world as you say we haven't been getting many calls. Would like to do a yoga class so if they come to me will just have to make sure I am done by 9 am

We are hardly getting any calls with JE away...but I do need to have it answered. I could forward them to the girls at FTC if you need a break (which I can understand! I have already told them I may need to do this)
